

Test Your Knowledge....Vaccine Scenarios Test

1. A five year old little boy comes to your office as a new patient and is just about to start public kindergarten. The parents did not bring any immunizations with them and are from out of state. What do you do? Where do you turn for your resource?

2. A twelve year old comes to your office as a new patient and is a Croatian refugee. She has a booklet listing the vaccines administered when in Croatia, but it is blurred and you are unable to decipher what she may have been given. What do you do? What resource do you turn to?

3. A twelve month old baby is brought in for his well baby check. His mother doesn't want him to receive all his vaccines at once, and opts to defer the varicella vaccine, but will allow his DTaP4, Hib4, PCV4 and HEP A1. When can she come back for the varicella vaccine? What resource did you find this in?

4. You were notified by the front office staff that a thirteen year old patient has just come in and has only a few minutes to receive her 3rd HPV vaccine. You rush, draw the vaccine up and administer it to her before verifying that is the vaccine due. Once she leaves, and you sit down to document the vaccine in the record, you discover you just gave her HPV4 in error, instead of HEP A1, which she should have received. What do you do? What resource do you turn to?

5. A 57 year old patient comes in for his routine yearly exam. When questioned by his healthcare provider, he states he has never received a pneumococcal vaccine before. The provider orders the pneumovax and instructs the LPN to administer it to the patient. The nurse administers the vaccine and when she enters it into the record, discovers the patient had in fact received a pneumococcal vaccine two years prior. What do you do? What resource do you use?
