Did you know that public health touches your life every day?

If you
...buckle your seatbelt,
...brush your teeth with fluoridated water,
...hear a message about the H1N1 and seasonal flus,
that's public health.

Public health initiatives have helped educate you and your community about seat belts, the role fluoride plays in preventing tooth decay, and about how to prevent infectious diseases including the H1N1 and seasonal flus.

Did you know that public health helps keep your child safe every day?

If you
...use a child safety car seat,
...make sure your child uses a bike helmet,
...take your child to a clinic to be vaccinated,
that's public health.

Public health initiatives have helped educate you and your community about the importance of car safety seats and bike helmets, and about the role vaccines play in keeping everyone healthy.

Did you know that public health helps keep your community safe every day?

If you
...dine out, secure in the knowledge that the restaurant has been inspected,
...work in a safe environment,
...know that your community is prepared for disasters,
that's public health.

Public health initiatives ensure that restaurants are inspected, workplaces follow safety regulations and that plans and resources are in place for use during disasters.
