Introduction

More than six million children across the country are living in households headed by grandparents or other relatives who have stepped forward to care for them because their parents could not safely care for them in their homes. In New Hampshire, more than 6,700 grandparents have reported that they are responsible for grandchildren living with them, with more than 10,000 children living in grandparent-led households. More than 4,000 of these children are living with grandparents without either parent present. In addition, more than 2,300 children live in households headed by other relatives. Sometimes, though not always, there is involvement with the New Hampshire Department of Health and Human Services’ Division for Children, Youth and Families (DCYF).

Relative care in New Hampshire is a living arrangement in which an adult relative (other than a parent) cares for a child under the age of 18 on a temporary or permanent basis. The relative can be related by blood, marriage or adoption and is most often a grandparent, but can also be an aunt, uncle, sibling or step-sibling, cousin, niece, or nephew.

Relative care situations can result when parents:

• Are unwilling or unable to care for a child full time;
• Cannot provide the child with a safe environment;
• Are deceased;
• Are separated from their child for long periods (e.g. substance use disorder, incarceration, physical or mental illness, or military deployment.)

Regardless of why relative care is necessary, all caregivers share a need for information, resources and support. Children and their caregivers are often eligible for state and federal benefits but may not know how to connect with these resources.

This guide can help you ask the right questions and find the answers you need. It includes information about programs and services that can help with the cost of caring for the child in your care, resources that can help, and information on guardianship.
Types of Relative Care

A note about guardianship: As a relative caregiver, you may need to make decisions about guardianship for the child in your care. While only you can decide what’s right for your family, you may choose to consult an attorney who specializes in family law to help you sort through the legal options and make informed decisions.

In New Hampshire, there are generally four types of relative care arrangements, each with different levels of assistance, rights, and responsibilities.

1. Informal Arrangement

Informal arrangements are made between parents and relatives, without the involvement of either the court or child welfare system.

For example:
- Parents may leave their child with a grandparent while they are away for work;
- An aunt may care for a nephew whose parents are dealing with a serious health issue;
- An adult may take care of a friend’s older children following the birth of a baby (for no more than 30 days.)

Informal Arrangements do not have the force of a court order, and do not grant legal custody of children to the caregivers - parents still have legal custody and may take the children home at any time.

While informal arrangements may be appropriate in short-term situations, they are generally not suitable for longer-term ones. Caregivers with an informal arrangement can have difficulty enrolling children in school, consenting to medical care, and securing benefits for the children.
2. Guardianship

Grandparents or other caretakers can acquire the legal right to custody of a child and the ability to make certain decisions for a child through the creation of a guardianship. In New Hampshire, this is done in Family Court.

Grandparents can request guardianship for their grandchildren with the consent of the parents. However, if the parents are incapable or unfit, guardianship may be granted over the parent’s objection. If you become the guardian of the child in your care, you can enroll the child in school and consent to medical treatment. This also means the birth parent cannot take the child without your permission.

As guardian, you are responsible for the care and upbringing of the child for the duration of the guardianship. Guardianship is not usually a permanent arrangement. The parents may request to visit with the child. You or the child’s parents may request the Family Court to end the guardianship at any time. In the event of your death, care of the child would return to the parents.

3. Relative Care Placement through DCYF

In New Hampshire, when a child is determined to be unsafe in his or her home because of abuse or neglect, local law enforcement or the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), Division for Children, Youth and Families (DCYF) may request a court to remove a child from his or her parents’ care. If the parent has not identified a relative at the time of removal, the child may be placed in a licensed foster home. New Hampshire courts also have the authority to remove juveniles from their homes and place them in various levels of care. Placement may include a relative’s home, foster home, group home, residential treatment facility or a secure environment, if necessary.

The first goal for children and youth in DCYF custody is to safely reunite with their parents. When that is not possible within a reasonable timeframe, DCYF must explore other options.

By law, the State of New Hampshire must make efforts to identify and notify all adult relatives within thirty days of a child’s placement outside their home. If a relative is not available or not appropriate, the child may be placed in a licensed foster home.
Grandparents or other relatives identified as appropriate caretakers for a child in State custody can become licensed by DCYF to provide foster care for the child. While this is not a requirement, it is strongly recommended as additional financial assistance or support services may be available. If you choose to become a foster care provider, you will be required to comply with DCYF foster care regulations (Administrative Rule Part He-C 6446, Foster Family Care Licensing Requirements).

If a child is placed with you through DCYF:

- A case worker will be assigned to help you and the child’s parents carry out the plan for the child;
- DCYF will support your relationship with the family;
- DCYF may ask you to help with the plan for contact between the child and parents;
- DCYF will be involved in many of the decisions that have to be made for the child;
- The child may stay in their current school if it’s in the child’s best interest; and
- DCYF may remove the child from your care if there are concerns about the child’s safety and well-being.

For more information on becoming a foster parent, visit www.DHHS.NH.gov.

4. Adoption

If you adopt a child related to you:

- You become the child’s legal parent with all rights and responsibilities
- The birth parents no longer have any legal rights or responsibilities with respect to the child

If there is a positive relationship, post-adoption contact between the child and birth family members may be in the best interest of the child. Contact may be arranged through informal or legally enforceable agreements, depending on the circumstance.
Help with Basic Needs

There are financial resources available to help relative caregivers meet the basic needs of the children in their care. Your family may be eligible for the following programs, depending on the type of relative care arrangement you have. In New Hampshire, a Family Services Specialist can determine your eligibility for benefits such as Cash Assistance, Food Stamps/SNAP, Medicaid and the Child Care Scholarship with a single application. Apply online at NH EASY Gateway to Services, or in person at your local District Office. A list of District Offices and their contact information is at the end of this guide.

Financial Assistance

Financial Assistance to Needy Families (FANF)
FANF provides cash assistance to needy families with dependent children. Eligibility and benefit amounts for FANF depends upon the family’s income, resources, living arrangements, and the dependent children must lack parental support or care due to death, continued absence or because at least one parent in a two-parent home is disabled.

Foster Care Compensation for Licensed Foster Relative Providers (for families involved with DCYF)
If you choose to become licensed, you will receive a bi-monthly foster care reimbursement for each of the children placed with you based on their age.

In addition:

• Health insurance is available either through the parents’ insurance or Medicaid/MCO
• DCYF may arrange for other services (e.g., counseling, child care, and other supports)
Adoption Assistance (for families involved with DCYF)

Children with special needs, who are in foster care, may qualify for adoption assistance through DCYF. Adoption Subsidies (known as Adoption Assistance) are federal or state adoption benefits that are to help enable the adoption of children that may otherwise remain in long term foster care. You must meet specific criteria, and the child must be approved for adoption assistance before finalizing the adoption.

Benefits available through adoption assistance commonly include:

- Monthly assistance to help you meet the child’s ongoing needs;
- Medicaid for the child;
- Reimbursement of certain one-time expenses related to adopting the child from state care (up to $2,000);
- Payment for special services for the child.

Child Care Scholarship

You may be able to receive financial assistance for child care if you meet the eligibility requirements for child care (including income guidelines), or if child care is authorized based on the child’s special needs.

For more information, apply at NH EASY Gateway to Services or apply at your nearest District Office.

Food Stamps/SNAP

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), also known as the Food Stamp program, is about good nutrition and health. It provides eligible people with benefits to buy food items at grocery stores, farmers markets and other approved food retailers. You may qualify for SNAP benefits depending on your household size, income, expenses and resources. You may qualify if you own your home, have no home, live with someone else or live alone. The Program gives deductions for things like housing costs, utilities, medical costs and child care.

Women, Infants, Children (WIC) Nutrition Program

The New Hampshire Women, Infants and Children Nutrition Program (WIC) provides nutrition education and nutritious foods to help keep pregnant women, new mothers, infants and preschool children healthy and strong. Relative caregivers may apply for the children in their care. Children under five are eligible if they are:

- In foster care
- Receiving Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), FANF, or Medicaid
- Meet income guidelines

National School Breakfast & Lunch Program

The National School Breakfast/Lunch Program is a federally assisted meal program operating in public and nonprofit private schools that provides nutritionally balanced, low-cost or no-cost lunches to students each day.
